Willcox Savage Adds Tom Urban to Growing Tysons Litigation Team

New partner brings 30 years of complex litigation expertise to Willcox Savage following AmLaw 100 tenure

Tysons, Virginia: Thomas F. Urban II joins Willcox Savage's Tysons office as a partner/member in the business litigation section. Tom has been in practice for 30 years and was recently recognized by Virginia Lawyers Weekly as one of "Virginia's Go To Lawyers" for Business Litigation (February 2025). He is known for his handling of complex lawsuits across a broad spectrum of commercial litigation, including antitrust, RICO, First Amendment, telecom, trade secrets, professional responsibility, and property rights. Serving both as national and local counsel, he's appeared in federal and state courts in Virginia (frequently in Virginia's Eastern District "rocket docket"), Washington, D.C., New York, Delaware, Illinois and Washington. In the past two years, Tom has obtained two highly publicized wins in U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit.

"We're thrilled to have Tom Urban join us", exclaimed Tom Inqlima, Willcox Savage managing partner. "We've been growing our Tyson's office the past several years and Tom is a natural fit – he's an incredibly accomplished attorney with a stellar reputation and a strong following. We know he'll make meaningful contributions to our culture and client services."

Tom is licensed in Virginia, the District of Columbia, and Texas. He is a member of the U.S. Supreme Court bar, the Fourth Circuit bar, and the bars of several U.S. district courts. Before joining Willcox Savage, Tom spent several years at two Am Law 100 firms. He clerked for Judge Carolyn D. King, the former chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Tom holds a J.D. from Georgetown University where he
